In accordance with our conversation during my recent trip I have inquired into the circumstances attending your son's application for employment with our organization. For your general information, these circumstances are summarized below:

David did not actually submit a formal application but was interviewed at the University on 7 February 1958 by one of our field representatives. At that time it was the impression of the interviewer that David's interest in the organization was limited to the JOT Program which, as you know, can accommodate only a very limited number of applicants. Apparently he did not indicate a desire to be considered for general employment; consequently, the interviewer did not forward the application to headquarters once it was determined that he could not be employed as a JOT. One interesting sidelight is the fact that during his interview he identified you as a [REDACTED]. Under the circumstances he could hardly have done otherwise, but if the interviewer had been aware of the facts the application would have been forwarded to headquarters.

In order to correct what may have been a misunderstanding of David's intent our Personnel people will contact him at the University and invite him to submit an application if he is interested in employment in some field other than the JOT Program.

It was good to see you, and if David wants to join us I hope that we can come up with something which will be interesting to him.

Sincerely,
